5 Countries around the world to see before you die

1 - Egypt. King Tut, The Pyramids, The Valley from the Kings. The list is endless. But it's just not the history and the culture, it's the folks too. Egyptians are some of the kindest and most generous people on the globe. They will welcome you into their homes within a second and even if they have next to nothing, they will share it together with you.

An afternoon on the Nile by having an Egyptian felucca captain sailing your boat as the sun sets over the Nile in Luxor is a once in a lifetime experience not to be missed.

2 - China. China will not be somewhere people immediately think about when planning a holiday! but they should, and hopefully following the Olympics in Beijing they will. In case you could only afford 7 to 10 days, an itinerary that takes in Beijing, Xian, a Yangtze River Cruise and Shanghai is a great introduction.

And for a wonderful experience, just visit Guilin. Guilin's landscape is amazing and totally unique. It can't necessarily be called Mountainous so, but the peaks that do rise, rise almost vertically up into your mist.

If you get a chance require a ski lift up to one of the peaks and just stare in awe in the view, and if you are feeling adventurous, require a kart down a toboggan style run (about 3,000 feet long) !

3 - Jordan. Handily located, if you're going it right you can visit Egypt and Jordan together to create a real trip to remember. Amman is a good city full of atmosphere, Petra is marvellous, but surely the can't miss site is the Dead Sea. The only real ocean in the world with so much salt inside, you actually float !

This alone makes Jordan a must see country and on top of some tips i have already mentioned, don't forget the Wadi Rum, Aqaba, Jerash along with the Kings Highway. A week in Jordan is a useful one, but 10 days is better.

4 - Hong Kong. To find out much more to Hong Kong than just shopping, if you undertake love to shop, then Hong Kong is where for you. A stroll along Nathan Road and a visit to the Temple Street market just Really needs to be done. And make sure you have your bargaining hat on as haggling can be as big a part of the experience as the purchases themselves.

There more to Hong Kong too. The great thing is the fact despite it being a modern city, there is certainly tradition around every corner. Don't forget to look at a trip to Victoria Peak and enjoy the stunning views can be earning ! that even if it's misty, there are 2 guys at the summit who will take your picture and transpose it onto a picture of what you should see if the next thunderstorm where not so poor ! In addition, i suggest a couple of half day visits over to Lamma and Lantau Islands too. A sensible way to escape the hustle and bustle from the craziness that is Hong Kong.

5 - Thailand. Thailand suffers a bit from it's reputation of being a very hedonistic destination although it is true that there is a very wild side to Thailand (especially certain parts of Bangkok, Phuket etc) there is also an amazing culture to immerse yourself in.

There really is everything there, adventure, culture and in some cases for the not faint hearted, the place about 1 hour north of Thailand where one can go in, yes go in, with real live tigers. No cages, no chains, just you and also around a dozen tigers. For me it had been a thrill of a lifetime and certainly it is just one of the many reasons that Thailand is within my top 5 of places you must visit in the world
