Compelling Facts About Sun Country Airlines

Sun Country Airlines was created over 30 years ago by highly experienced aviation employees from Braniff Airlines. Unfortunately Braniff went out of business, and this core group of people had the keen desire to continue doing what they knew by creating a brand new airline. The airline went a long way in their run of nearly twenty years, and in December, 2001, they went out of business due to the events of a few months before. But that didn't last long because they were bought by investors who worked hard to resurrect Sun Country. True to their roots, this incredible airline is a story of overcoming odds and providing a first class flying experience to their customers. In the very beginning, Sun Country Airlines was held together by thirty-three employees who were all working multiple jobs within the company. Yet they were all experienced airline people; having been working for Braniff Airlines prior to Sun Country. Pilots and flight attendants did a variety of jobs in addition to their primary roles within the company. When you are alone and starting a business like that, then you put things aside and focus on the job. Much to their credit, they were in profits in less than two months of operation.

Braniff Airlines collapsed in the early 80s, and a core group of employees decided to form Sun Country Airlines in 1982. Once they secured funds by outside investors, they were able to put everything together and launch their brand new airlines. Their beginnings were humble, indeed, and their only destination was to Las Vegas. Their approach was simple, they made a business alliance with a local travel business and chartered flights to the gambling mecca in Nevada. That strategy paid off because they were very quickly turning a profit. Sun Country offers a variety of business packages and services, and among them are Sun Country Charters. They have been involved with chartering for a quarter of a century. So that is something that many types of organizations have taken advantage of.

The fact of the matter is that they are known internationally for their outstanding chartering services. They have performed valuable services for educational institutions as well as foreign officials. That really does speak volumes about how well they are regarded on an international level. You should not be concerned about Sun Country Airlines being able to survive because they are doing all the right things to bring them back to full operation. Sun Country has weathered many storms along the way, just like any other airline, and their experienced and dedicated employees know how to turn things around. The reason they know what action to pursue is a result of their vast aviation experience. We all know that the global economic state was created by external factors totally separate from how they ran their operations. However, Sun Country Airlines has already proven their ability to bounce back.
