The Four Seasons on East 57th between Madison and Park Avenues is among the most luxurious hotels in Manhattan which unsurprisingly also means that it's ridiculously expensive. Just one Friday night at this hotel this month would run you at least $750/room. And for their most expensive one bedroom suite you would pay an astounding $5000. That is not a typo. If you want to blow $5000 on your NYC vacation in a just one night, just get a suite at the Four Seasons in Manhattan.

Of course for that kind of money you will be getting a top of the line experience. Amenities such as a sauna, a jacuzzi, a gym, all day room service, quality laundry service, high speed internet service, valet parking, and a 24 hour security guard are all a part of the package.

But regardless of how wonderful your hotel is, the key part of a hotel in NYC is its location and this hotel is perfectly situated near Central Park and quite a few other cool tourist attractions such as Barneys New York, the Museum of Modern Art, the American Folk Art Museum, and shopping on 5th Avenue.

Personally I wouldn't waste this kind of cash on a hotel room unless I was seriously wealthy. There are lots of decent discount hotel choices in Manhattan that also have good locations and good enough amenities.
