Flight booking could be done months in advance or at the last minute in order to make savings. As for the right time of the year, I'd say autumn and winter are the finest, because the islands are less crowded during these months. For surfers things are a bit different, and special planning is required.

A vacation package is the most popular choice, but it is not always a cheap vacation Hawaii package. Maybe a bed and breakfast and a rented cottage could be more advantageous. I'd say to compare all the possibilities before you decide between a cheap vacation Hawaii package or an independent vacation that does not keep you tight to a hotel or a certain resort.
