Save Money On Discount Flights

Things To Do Before Booking Flights or Hotel Rooms.

1. Try to compare cost among Airlines and Hotels, by calling directly as soon as you know your travel frame to find their discount rates. Most Airlines only offer a limited number of seats on each flight at their lowest rates and those seats usually sell out fast. Same goes for the Hotels they only offer specials on limited number of rooms. Good idea is to find package deals if possible. Time frames and rate terms vary for each Airline and Hotel, but many advance booking discounts and offers are good until a week or two before the flight or stay.
2. Keep in mind being flexible on your departure day and times to take advantage of the cheapest flights and hotel rooms is a good way to get deals. If your trip is less than a week, you may need to travel mid-week to mid-week. Just so you know many ticket and room deals require a Saturday stay.
3. Book your flight and hotel room stay ahead of your travel time, after getting quotes from multiple Airlines and Hotels, try finding the best packages with the cheapest.
4. Find a better price before booking your flight or hotel room if the initial prices are too high. Consider flying or staying at a different airport or hotel, as ticket and room rates may vary widely depending on where you depart, arrive and stay. When comparing savings, be sure to factor in costs you will incur if you change airports or hotels.

Some Suggestions

When advance booking doesn't lead to expected capacity, Airlines and Hotels often discount the remaining seats or rooms. Last minute discount rates might be available up to 10 days in advance for flights. However, the cheapest rates are often a day before a flight is scheduled to depart. Many airlines run ads that give prices on cheap flights out of local airports available that week. Ask to put your name on a stand by list for future cancellations if the price is cheap but no seats are open.

1. Find Last-Minute Cheap Flights.
2. Check the airlines and hotels websites to see what deals they are offering.
3. Look in the classified section of your local newspaper. (Many airlines run ads that give prices on cheap flights out of local airports available that week)
4. Call surrounding airports to inquire whether cancellations have made cheap tickets available.

Sometimes taking a bus or train for part of the trip and then taking a flight for the remainder of the journey is the cheapest way to travel. If your plans include a car rental, before booking your flight find out if rates at the alternate airport could provide a savings or an expense increase. If you don't get sea sick look into Cruise prices.

Explore various flight and hotel options

Sometimes taking connecting flights where you have to change planes, or one-stop flights where the plane makes a stop along the way can cost less than a nonstop flight.

Cheap flights

May be available if you redeem frequent flier points or participate in other promotional programs airlines and hotels offer.

Travel during slow seasons

Airlines and Hotels are offering cheap flights trying to fill seats on planes that are taking off under capacity and Hotels that are under booked. Cheap flight and hotel room deals are commonly available in the fall and right after the first of the year.

Always Remember

1. Airline ticket and Hotel prices vary considerably day to day. Where and when you purchase your ticket or room also affects the price you pay. Air ticket prices sometimes vary so much that some people claim no two seats on the flight cost the same amount unless they are purchased together by the same person. Save money on airline tickets, hotel rooms and find cheap flights and rooms by being a smart consumer.

2. If you have to be at your destination by a particular time, be careful about waiting too close to your departure time before purchasing your ticket. If you do not have your seat reserved a week before, you need to be there you run the risk of not being able to get a cheap flight.
