

Published based on Save Time And Money On Your Next Trip With Pinkfish.com

Save Time And Money On Your Next Trip With Pinkfish.com

This post is for anyone who buys a lot of trips online (flight tickets, hotel, rental cars, vacations, cruises etc) and who feels that it can be quite a hassle to know where to get the best deals. This is something that most of us does at least every once in a while and something that I do almost every week. I am pretty sure that we all like to avoid paying more than what we have to pay also we like to avoid paying more than others for the exact same trip or hotel room.

Haven't we all been stuck in front of our computers for hours when looking for the best airfare or hotel prices? Now, there are many good travel web sites as well as websites that aggregate a lot of the flight, hotel and other travel information but still I have found myself looking in too many places to ever know where I will be able to find the best deals. Time consuming, confusing and frustrating are phrases that can describe this process. Sometimes one site is really good and then just a day or two later their prices have increased so much that I need to start over and compare a lot of sites from scratch. This whole process is something that I know can be made smoother however I haven't been able to find a good site that could do the job for me until very recently!

The new site I found, which is saving me both time and money on both flights and hotels is called Pinkfish.com. With pinkfish a user can search so many sources at once that he or she won't be needing anything else. Pinkfish is a really cool tool that is hopefully here to stay. To try it out you can find their flight search at:

www.pinkfish.com/flights

And then their hotel search can be found on:

www.pinkfish.com/hotels

The pinkfish site is an aggregating "meta search engine" and it supposedly uses the same sources as many of the other sites out there and then combines them all into one easily read page. It also uses direct contacts with specific airlines that can't be found on other aggregators making their selection even greater than a combination of others.

The service doesn't require any type of membership, is free of charge to use and it is intended to save users time and money on flights and hotels and hopefully the web site will be adding more search services such as car rentals or cruises in the near future. All I can say is that it's something that I have been looking for and a great service that anyone who is looking for online tickets is likely to enjoy.

You can also find this article published on Save Time And Money On Your Next Trip With Pinkfish.com, and on the tag pages Flight, meta search engine, site, time, travel information, travel web sites.